Study request

Look into plastics ban: Councillor

Dawn Sloane METRO

Downtown Coun. Dawn Sloane said at Halifax Regional Council Tuesday that she'd like to receive more information on a possible plastics ban for the municipality.

But some councillors already appear to be lining up in opposition of the idea. Toronto council banned plastic bags last week.

Sloane informed council she'll request a staff report examining the use of plastics — including bags and the film common in packaging food and other goods — at the next council meeting.

"I just want a study done ... and then for us to look at whether or not a ban would be advantageous," Sloane said after the meeting.

Sloane said that, since she first floated the idea, she's been contacted by the Plastics Council of Canada and the Retail Council of Canada on the issue.

Timberlea-Prospect Coun. Reg Rankin opposed Sloane's motion, saying council should have waived its normal rules and debated the issue Tuesday.

After the council meeting, Rankin accused Sloane of "posturing" in advance of this October's municipal election. Rankin noted a comprehensive study of how the municipality handles waste is currently being conducted.

Council will debate the issue next Tuesday.

Sale of school a sham: Lawyer

Review. Lawyers for HRM and Jono Developments will speak on Wednesday

JENNIFER TAPLIN
jennifertaplin@metronews.ca

The Halifax Regional Municipality is unfair and "failed the public" in the sale of a surplus north-end school, argued lawyer Ron Pink in court Tuesday.

It was the first of two days of a judicial review at the Nova Scotia Supreme Court looking into the sale of the St. Patrick's-Alexandra school property. Pink represents the North End Community Health

Request

"All we're asking for in this case is to give us a first look and a consultation, not a guarantee (to buy the property)." Ron Pink, Lawyer Association, Mi'kmaq Native Friendship Society and Richard Preston Centre for Excellence Society. These groups feel they didn't get an opportunity to consult and submit a proposal.

HRM not only went against its policy, but also against its charter, Pink told the court.

"Council breached its duty of fairness," he said.

HRM's charter states the municipality can only sell below market value to non-profit groups. Pink said the property was appraised at $4.3 million. Pink said Jono submitted a sliding offer of $3 million to $4.75 million with a development agreement of $3 million to $4 million for the property as is, without a development agreement in place. The deal was set at $3 million.

"Nobody can win against a for-profit when a for-profit is paying real dollars," Pink said, adding the community group's benefit is social capital.

"It wasn't a fair fight."

Council voted to sell the property to Jono Developments in December but rescinded the motion in January after public outcry and questions about HRM not following its own policy on public consultation when selling surplus schools.

"I say council knew they were wrong," Pink said.

After a staff report explaining that although HRM didn't follow policy in the following weeks, it did follow long-standing practice, council changed its mind and approved the sale to Jono.

"They set the table but they didn't want to sit at that table and sit somewhere else. That's a problem," Pink said.

Skating oval. Chillers transferred to city

The chillers used to cool the city's long-track speed-skating oval have officially become the property of HRM.

Halifax regional council voted on Tuesday to accept three 120-tonne chillers from the Canada Games Host Society. The chillers were the last assets of the host society, and had to be disposed of before the society finished up its business.

The memorandum of agreement between HRM and the host society also commits the society to commissioning and buying a piece of public art for the site, with a price tag of up to $100,000.

The memorandum of agreement lasts until 2016. It commits the municipality to maintaining the site and ensuring it meets technical requirements for professional speed-skating events.

The Halifax Regional Municipality's newest mayoral candidate is hoping voters will look beyond his troubled past in this fall's election.

Vince Hall, a former Cape Breton councillor, who formally announced his candidacy on Tuesday, has two impaired-driving convictions on his record — one in 2001 and another in 2007.

But Hall, 43, insists he is a changed man. "I acknowledge that I made mistakes in my past life," he said. "I was dealing with some personal issues, made some stupid choices and paid dearly for it. I accepted responsibility and made changes in my life and moved on. I would hope that the majority of people would accept that and focus on the issues and ideas that I'm bringing forward."

Hall is running on a platform based in part on a proposal to split up HRM into urban and rural municipalities. He said he has been a critic of amalgamation since it went into effect in 1996 and wants a referendum on the subject to be on the October ballot.

"The current model of government isn't working," he said. "Rural areas feel left out, suburban big-box sprawl has hollowed out our downtown cores and taxes are too high."

He also outlined his plans to hold a core-services review of the municipality, divert more resources to police to address violent crime and rein in electricity, fuel and school-tuition costs.

In addition to his two convictions, Hall was criticized for missing several meetings in 2007 as councillor in Cape Breton while teaching part-time in Halifax.

Blaze at vacant home considered suspicious

Investigation. Over half-dozen fire trucks respond to afternoon fire in East Preston on Tuesday

halifax@metronews.ca

An investigation is underway into a blaze that brought down a vacant home in East Preston on Tuesday.

The windows of the house on Upper Partridge River Road had been boarded up, the power had been turned off and there was no indication that anyone had been living inside, said Halifax Regional Fire and Emergency Platoon Chief Paul Hopkins.

A cause for the blaze has yet to be determined, but Hopkins described the situation as "suspicious."

He said investigators would have to consider arson a possibility, as no other source of ignition could be immediately identified.

Neighbors started calling the fire department around 2:30 p.m. after they saw smoke coming from the roof of the house. Soon after, Hopkins said the flames reached 20 feet into the air before the roof collapsed.

Vehicles and about 20 personnel from neighboring departments were called to the scene to help battle the blaze.

Hopkins said that, as a precaution, firefighters approached the situation as if someone were inside. They soon realized that the building had long been empty.

Hopkins also said the department opted for a slower, safer "defensive" approach and doused the flames from the outside.

"With vacant homes, the challenge is the unknown,"

Patients asked to have blood retested

Medical staff in Nova Scotia are encouraging more than 350 people to have their blood retested after lab equipment malfunctioned last week at a hospital in Truro.

The Colchester Regional Hospital says results from tests run from June 4 to 6 may be inaccurate after one of its two chemistry analyz-ers broke down.

The hospital tests roughly 140 samples per day using the machines.

But Manoj Vohra, vice-president of medicine at Colchester East Hants Health Authority, says there's no way of knowing precisely how many results are incorrect.

Vohra apologized for the malfunction.

"While the malfunction may have resulted in only a small number of inaccurate results, the fact is we can't be certain about results for this period of time, and we are erring on this side of caution," Vohra said in a statement Tuesday.

Patients whose results may have been affected are being notified via letters and

VIA supporters start petition as rumours of service cuts swirl

Public's help sought.

Halifax-to-Montreal train said to be facing off-season reductions

Speculation about potential cuts to VIA Rail's Halifax-to-Montreal route has led to the creation of an online petition seeking public support for the service.

"As I am sure you are aware, over the past couple of weeks rumours have been circulating in the media regarding proposed cuts to VIA Rail Canada," said an employee who works on board VIA's ocean run.

"It's just basically to create public awareness that this is what is being speculated to happen," the employee, who asked not to be identified for job-security reasons, said of the petition.

The petition can be found at ipetitions.com/petition/stop-

Quoted

"People would definitely lose their jobs if there was a cut from six days to three."

A VIA Rail employee who works on board the ocean run cuts-to-via-rail-canada

The speculation, which began following reports of anticipated cuts during a recent VIA Rail annual general meeting, is that the service between Halifax and Montreal stands to be reduced from six days per week to three in the off-season.

A union spokesperson could not be immediately reached for comment, but the employee, who spoke with the Truro Daily News, said rumours have led to feelings of "insecurity" among employees over whether job cuts could occur if the run is reduced.

"It's been really sombre. The morale is quite low because no one is willing to give answers, you know, to confirm or deny the rumours," the person said.

Malcolm Andrews, VIA's senior manager of media and community relations, said the company does not "comment on rumours" and he could not provide any information about any pending cuts to the service in question.

"But I can say VIA Rail regularly reviews its operations to ensure that they are appropriate and that they meet evolving market demand," he said.

Such reviews, which Andrews said are ongoing, can sometimes result in adjustments to fares, services, schedules and so on.

Second shooting victim dies

Another victim of the shooting at Toronto's downtown Eaton Centre has died.

Police identified the victim — the second person to die — as 22-year-old Nixon Nirmalendran of Toronto.

The man was among six people wounded in the June 2 shooting, which took place in the food court of the multi-level shopping mall.

The incident also killed Ahmed Hassan, 24, who died of gunshot wounds at the scene.

Christopher Husbands, 23, is charged with one count of first-degree murder and six counts of attempted murder in the shootings.

Girl, 17, at large in trafficking case

Ottawa police are hunting for a teenage girl who allegedly lured other young girls over the Internet and then forced them into prostitution.

Investigators call it a stunning cautionary tale about the perils of social media.

Two 15-year-old girls are already in custody, charged with luring girls — one as young as 13 — through social-networking sites, then turning them over for prostitution with adult males.

One of the accused was in court Tuesday, the other is due in court on Wednesday. The third suspect, 17, is still at large.

Police say the victims met online but may have "distantly" known each other. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec students take their battle to court

Harsh law. Lawyers all set to challenge Bill 78, but has it already backfired on the government?

Lawyers were heading to court Tuesday to challenge a controversial Quebec law brought in to deal with student protests.

The government introduced the law as a way to cool down the heated protests.

But it may have backfired, as protests have grown larger.

Nearly 20 lawyers representing student federations and other groups are trying to get parts of the law temporarily suspended until they can argue the merits.

Bill 78 came into force in mid-May.

The legal motion being heard in court is one of two challenging the emergency law. The second is to have Bill 78 declared invalid altogether and it will be heard at a later date.

The law lays out rules for demonstrations, such as ordering assemblies of more than 50 people to give eight hours' notice of the protest route and the estimated duration of the event. It also sets hefty fines for people who contravene the law.

No Z's, please. MPs all set for marathon session

Members of Parliament are getting set to hunker down for a voting marathon on the government's budget-implementation bill.

They're preparing for what's expected to be more than 24 consecutive hours of voting on more than 800 proposed amendments to Bill C-38.

The voting is likely to begin late afternoon or early evening, after the current round of debate ends.

The Conservatives curtailed the number of hours for that debate, winning a 157-135 vote to end it after 10 more hours of speeches.

{{Tagline}}

MPs will vote in the marathon at least 67 times and no more than 159.

The marathon could have been longer — the Opposition introduced more than 1,000 amendments to the controversial budget bill.

But the Speaker of the House of Commons ruled Monday that not all of the submitted amendments would be allowed.

Dingo really did take baby, says coroner

Mystery. It took four inquests, 32 years to clear mother accused of killing her own baby Australians have overwhelmingly welcomed the final chapter of a mystery that has captivated the country for 32 years: Did a dingo really take a baby that vanished from an Outback campsite in 1980?

A country that was once bitterly divided on whether baby Azaria Chamberlain had been dragged away by a wild dog or murdered by her mother now largely agrees that the parents deserve the vindication a coroner's court provided Tuesday.

A day after Azaria Chamberlain would have turned 32, a coroner found that a dingo had taken her as a nine-week-old baby from a tent near Ayers Rock, the red monolith now known as Uluru. That is what her parents had maintained from the beginning.

The case became famous internationally through the 1988 Meryl Streep movie A Cry in the Dark.

Many Australians initially did not believe that a dingo was strong enough to take away the baby. Public opinion swayed harshly against the couple; some even spat on Chamberlain-Creighton and howled like dingoes outside her house.

Bangladesh turns away Muslims escaping conflict in Myanmar

Bangladesh on Tuesday turned away three boats carrying 1,000 Rohingya Muslims fleeing violence in neighbouring Myanmar, bringing to 1,500 the number of refugees blocked in recent days, officials said.

"They have been chased away," police official Jahangir Alam said by phone from Saint Martins Island in the Bay of Bengal after the three boats attempted to approach the shore of the island. "We are keeping our eyes open so that nobody can enter Bangladesh illegally."

Violence between Buddhists and minority Muslims in western Myanmar have left at least 12 people dead and hundreds of homes burned since Friday. Bangladesh earlier said it sent back 11 boats with about 500 Rohingya Muslims aboard in the past three days.

Foreign Minister Dipu Moni said at a news conference in the capital, Dhaka, that it was not in Bangladesh's interest to accept any refugees because the impoverished country's resources already are strained.

Some still slipped into Bangladesh, and one refugee allegedly wounded by gunfire from Myanmar security forces died Tuesday at a hospital in Chittagong, a doctor said.

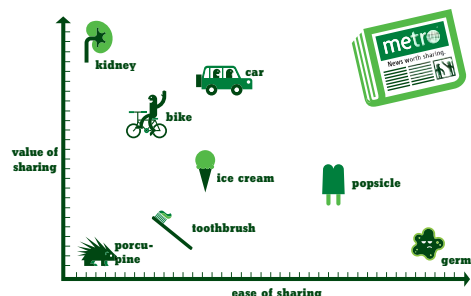

Kala Hussain, 50, died from a stomach wound, and two other Rohingyas are being treated for bullet wounds, said Anisur Rahman, a doctor at Chittagong Medical College Hospital.

Three-year-old gets new skin in rare surgery

Barbecue accident. Skin cloned using mouse cells as a scaffold, which is an unusual procedure in Africa

A three-year-old South African girl who suffered severe burns over 80 per cent of her body after an accident at a family barbecue has successfully undergone a rare surgery in Africa that gave her a new layer of cloned skin, her surgeon said Tuesday.

Mia and his team used enough cloned skin during the surgery to cover a placemat and stapled it in pieces onto Isabella's wounds. On her face, doctors used absorbent stitch

Bombardier shares surge on massive business-jet order

Major deal. NetJets Inc., a Warren Buffett company, signed the deal to buy up to 275 Bombardier Challengers, worth up to $7.3 billion US

Bombardier Inc. shares soared in trading Tuesday following a major deal with one of renowned billionaire investor Warren Buffett's companies, which is poised to buy up to $9.6 billion worth of business jets and services.

Private-jet company NetJets Inc. signed a deal Monday to buy up to 275 Bombardier Challenger business jets that could be worth up to $7.3 billion US. There are 100 firm orders and options on 175 more.

Bombardier said it has also signed a 15-year service and maintenance agreement for the aircraft valued at as much as an additional $2.3 billion if all options are exercised.

Bombardier shares gained more than six per cent, or 22 cents, to close at $3.87 on heavy volume of more than 21.2 million shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

"This purchase demonstrates our long-term planning and represents our ongoing commitment to providing unparalleled safety and service in aircraft uniquely customized for our owners," NetJets chairman and CEO Jordan Hansell said in a statement.

"The magnitude of the order is likely much larger than market expectations."

Cameron Doerksen of National Bank Financial

The deal includes 75 firm orders and 125 options for the Challenger 300 Series aircraft as well as 25 firm orders and 50 options for the larger Challenger 605 Series aircraft.

The firm orders are worth $2.6 billion based on 2012 list prices.

Airlines battle with ticketing firms over new booking systems

A passenger uses a self-check-in kiosk in Atlanta. Extra legroom, special meals, access to the VIP lounge — and tickets to a musical? Airlines want to raise new revenues by selling such extras alongside tickets, and are locked in battle with three companies that dominate the bookings industry over the introduction of a new global reservation system. Carriers complain the current system is a costly 1970s throwback without Internet-era convenience. They want to cut out the global ticket-booking systems — Sabre Holdings, Travelport Ltd. and Amadeus IT Group — that some reject as obsolete middlemen who add costs. Bookings companies retort that they have invested to upgrade services and are working hard to meet carriers' needs.

MORE STUDENTS CHOOSING CAREER COLLEGES

Your educational life follows a well-set course from primary to Grade 12, but after high school graduation young people find themselves facing a huge range of options. More and more students are choosing career colleges because they have lower tuition than university and offer a quicker turnaround to be ready to work.

Deb Noonan is a guidance counselor at Halifax West High School. She says students can get a taste of a trade by studying related classes at high school. She says it's a gradual decision that should be made over the three years of high school and urges students to think ahead because obstacles may arise.

The great appeal of attending a career college is that it offers a clear path to employment in the field of study. For example, some statistics show that a year after graduation, about 92 per cent of career college graduates are employed and 88 per cent of those are working in their fields of study.

Olivia Dorey, a Grade 12 student at Sir John A Macdonald High School, says deciding on the next step after high school is a major undertaking. She knew she didn't enjoy math, and realized that eliminated not only being a mathematician, but also a range of medical and technical jobs.

"I knew I would be miserable," she says. "It's very important to know what you want to do, or at least know what you're passionate about."

She also considered the military and talked to a friend who had explored that path. "I realized it wasn't going to suit me. I'm not competitive enough, and I'm extremely non-violent. Not a very good match," she laughs.

In the end, she says, the important thing is to find out what you're passionate about and seek a career that taps into that love.

Students at ICT Northumberland College get plenty of opportunities to hone their trade.

HEALING THROUGH TOUCH

Health-care professionals looking to have a career in massage therapy can get a head start at ICT Northumberland College.

The program is called Massage as a Second Career (MASC) and it is designed for health-care professionals and/or people with degrees in the health or physical sciences.

"You can do the program in 10 months, as opposed to two years because of credit transfers," says admissions director Karen McKenzie.

The program is open to health-care professionals such as physiotherapists, kinesiologists, athletic and recreational therapists. Building upon a participant's core scientific knowledge, the program covers the fundamental skills and tools needed to be a massage therapist.

Some of the people who enrol in the program do so not to change careers, but to expand their skill set.

"It's another tool in the toolbox," explains McKenzie.

Massage therapy is the manipulation of the soft tissues of the body and is used to promote stress reduction, health and wellness, as well as treat acute and chronic conditions.

"What is wonderful when you go for a massage in Canada, your massage therapist can treat a number of conditions," says McKenzie.

Surprising conditions such as asthma, constipation and sleep disorders can all be treated through massage therapy.

Northumberland College falls under the umbrella of ICT Schools, which have 30 years of expertise in teaching massage therapy from which to draw from. For full-time

ON THE PATH TO SUCCESS

There are a number of reasons why Success College should be top of mind when it comes to selecting a private career college. One reason is the exceptional faculty.

“The instructors all have real-world experience,” says Amy Grewal, the school’s student services officer.

All instructors have at least five years of industry working experience and are able to give their students excellent insight into what life is really like out in the field.

Many of the instructors still continue to work in their chosen fields, which helps ensure the curriculum is cutting-edge and current.

Located in Lower Sackville on Sackville Drive, Success College is easily accessible by public transit and also has unlimited parking.

Hands-on learning is an important part of the curriculum in every program offered by Success College, which helps the students learn better.

One of the major questions many students have about going to school relates to how to pay for it. To help students navigate the sometimes-confusing world of student loans, the college has a financial assistance officer whose job is to help students apply for student loans. This individual is also able to assess whether students will be eligible and can help them identify other possible funding sources.

When students make an investment in education, they want to know it will lead to a career for them. At Success College, it puts its money where its mouth is. The college offers a Tuition Pledge, which is a guarantee that if a student can’t find a job after graduation in the field in which they studied, the school will pay back their student loan or refund their tuition.

Also, every program at Success College includes a module on professional development, which includes topics such as job search skills, interview techniques and resume building.

These are just some of the reasons why Success College has a great reputation and is highly respected by the industries in which its graduates are employed.

MORE THAN 100 YEARS OF HISTORY

Success College’s roots in Nova Scotia are deep. Originally known as Snell Business College, the school began its operations in Truro in 1893. At that time, it offered programs in penmanship, stenography, business arithmetic and bookkeeping.

Over the years, the programs Success College has offered have changed to meet the needs of how society and the business world have evolved, such as when the typewriter was introduced.

Staying cutting edge is something that continues in the present day.

“We’re definitely at the forefront of what’s going on in the world,” says Amy Grewal, the school’s student services officer.

The newest program the school is offering is an IT Specialist one. This program will begin — along with the next intake of students for other programs — in September.

Hands-on learning is an integral component of the curriculum at the Canadian College of Acupuncture & Traditional Chinese Medicine.

HANDS-ON PRACTICAL TRAINING

Acupuncture is a lifelong and rewarding career with a healthy future.

Located on the Bedford Highway, the Canadian College of Acupuncture & Traditional Chinese Medicine (CCATCM) is the only registered acupuncture school in Atlantic Canada.

With small class sizes and instructors who have a terrific passion for the profession and teaching, CCATCM is an ideal education destination for people interested in becoming acupuncturists.

"We really emphasize hands-on practical training," says Rob Wetmore, the school's executive director.

CCATCM's acupuncture program is three years long and includes 2,200 hours of learning. Of those 2,200 hours, 30 per cent (660) are practical hours, spent in the student clinic practicing with actual clients or doing clinical observation.

The college is also affiliated with the L-C & S-T Life-Care Acupuncture and Natural Medicine Clinics on the Bedford Highway and on Quinpool Road. These two clinics, staffed by 16 practitioners, have treated thousands of clients over the past 20 years.

Acupuncture and traditional Chinese medicine are fields that are growing in popularity.

"People are getting away from traditional western medicine and are looking for something different," says Wetmore.

While acupuncture may seem like something that is relatively new, it is actually more than 5,000 years old and its origins come from China.

Acupuncture works by stimulating specific points on the body, usually by inserting thin metal needles through the skin. The World Health Organization has identified 43 different conditions that acupuncture can effectively treat, including allergies, respiratory conditions, gastrointestinal disorders, as well as treatment for substance abuse.

CCATCM's program has a great schedule for its students as they take classes for four hours a day, five days a week. This means students can comfortably work part-time and carry on with their personal and family responsibilities.

The main acupuncture program takes three years to complete. However, there is also an accelerated program, which takes two years.

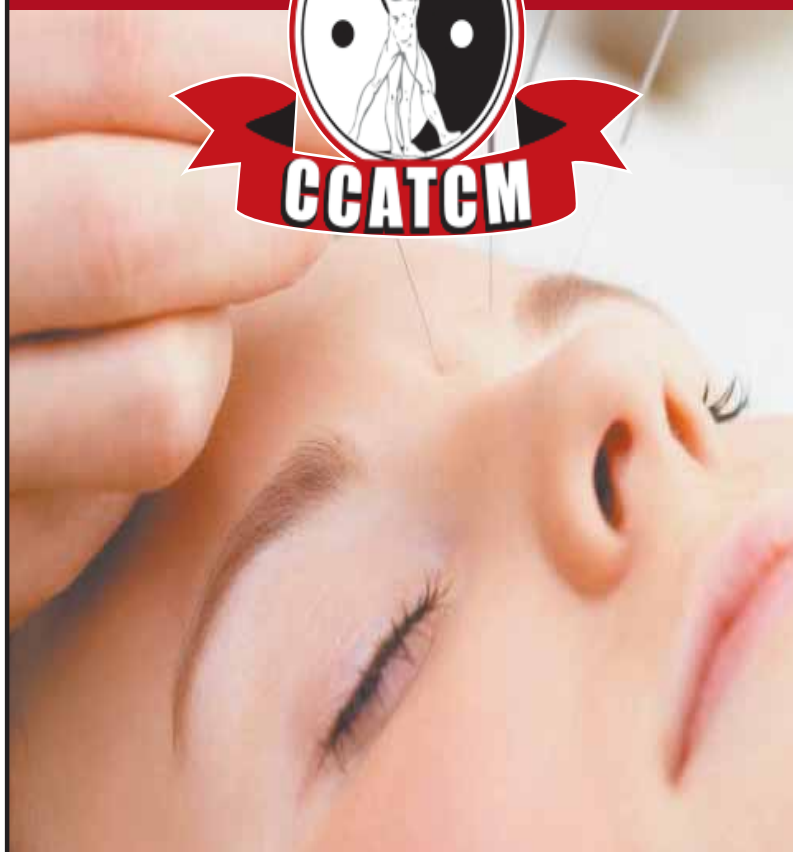

The next course starts on Sept. 17. With a limited number of seats available, it is recommended students apply early.

'YOU FEEL SO WELCOME'

Looking back on her decision to attend the Canadian College of Massage & Hydrotherapy (CCMH), former graduate Sarah Hawco is ecstatic about her decision.

"I couldn't have asked for a better group of teachers," says the registered massage therapist who graduated last year. "The people who work at CCMH had the highest standard for us students."

Hawco says the staff was always available and was very encouraging with the students. The expertise of the staff was another thing that impressed her

"Some teachers had 20 years of experience practicing massage therapy," says Hawco.

CCMH is centrally located in the Mumford Professional Centre and easily accessible by Metro Transit or by car.

Hawco feels the college offers a great atmosphere.

"It doesn't feel like you're going to school," she says, noting that while you know you are there to learn, you feel like a part of a family.

"When you walk in, it doesn't feel like you're going to a facility," says Hawco. "You feel like you're walking into a home. You feel so welcome."

For this reason, she recommends people get in touch with CCMH for a campus visit.

CCMH has three options for massage therapy programs: a two-year program, an 18-month accelerated one and a three-year program, which is a mix of onsite and online learning. (Hawco was in the accelerated program.)

Students at the Canadian College of Massage & Hydrotherapy get real-world experience through the college's student clinic.

As part of the curriculum, students also complete 170 hours at the student clinic and do 56 hours of time in specialized clinics, devoted to an interest of theirs, such as neurological conditions, chronic pain or pregnancy.

As a working registered massage therapist, Hawco feels CCMH has prepared her exceptionally well for her career.

"Big time," she says. "I feel I'm over prepared. Some of the things I face on a day-to-day basis, I'm like, 'Really? I feel like I should be challenged more.' When I was in school, we were so challenged and they really put the students to the test."

The fact Hawco feels so comfortable in her position is a validation of the education she received at CCMH, which is something that brings her great joy.

"It feels great because it makes me feel more confident in my treatments and treatment plans," she says.

BEAUTY IS WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR NEXT RAISE

JUST SAYIN'
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca/justsaying

When Maria Sharapova won the French Open on Saturday, it was another victory for the Beautiful People.

Sharapova, all six-foot-two of her, is gorgeous. But, then, so are a lot of tennis players these days. Somewhere along the line, right at Anna Kournikova, perhaps, it became important for female tennis players to be beautiful as well as talented.

Partial list: Daniela Hantuchova, Sabine Lisicki, Vera Zvonareva, Lucie Safarova, Maria Kirilenko, Simona Halep, Tatiana Golovin, as well as the aforementioned Kournikova and Sharapova. Apparently, it doesn't hurt if you're Eastern European either.

One honest BBC producer has admitted that "babes and Brits" get the centre-court treatment at Wimbledon while less attractive players have to grunt it out on the outer courts.

But that's the way of the world. If you're gorgeous, you're golden.

Daniel Hamermesh, a professor at the University of Texas in Austin and author of Beauty Pays, estimates that, in a lifetime, a bad-looking person can earn $230,000 less than a good-looking person, all other things being equal.

The truth about looking good is out there.

In the job market: Attractive people get more job recommendations, are considered more qualified, less likely to be fired, more likely to be hired, more likely to succeed, to be paid more, and to be promoted more frequently.

In the courts: Juries think physically attractive people are less likely to be guilty. Attractive people get lower bail, lighter sentences and smaller fines. Except maybe not Luka Magnotta. But imagine how much trouble he'd be in if he was really ugly?

In school: Attractive people get better grades.

On Facebook: Attractive people are more "friended" than ugly people.

Sex: Attractive people get more dates, have more sex and even have more orgasms.

OK, too much information, perhaps. Good thing I'm attractive. Did I mention that, generally, men tend to overestimate their good looks? Women go the opposite way. More than eight out of 10 hate the way they look in a mirror. One study showed women see themselves as fatter after eating a single chocolate bar. It would have to be a 35,000-calorie chocolate bar for that to be true.

Hamermesh — whose wife thinks he looks average — finds that 70 per cent of people agree on what's attractive most of the time. It has to do with symmetry. The more symmetrical you look, the more attractive you are. Jug ears are out.

So that "beauty is in the eye of the beholder" stuff is fine ... just as long as you're beautiful.

Have a nice day and, if possible, stay away from mirrors. They're bad luck, in more ways than one.

Three cubs rescued in house raid

A caretaker bottle-feeds a rescued Bengal tiger cub in Dhaka, Bangladesh, on Tuesday. Bangladeshi officials Monday rescued three Bengal tiger cubs from an alleged wildlife smuggler's house in the capital.

The cubs, about two months old, had been captured in the southwestern Sundarbans mangrove forests in Bangladesh.

Grammy producer discusses Houston doc

Producers of the 54th Grammy Awards have created a documentary showing how they adapted to the news of Whitney Houston's death less than 24 hours before the live telecast.

A Death in the Family: The Show Must Go On premiered Monday in Los Angeles.

Ken Ehrlich, who has produced the Grammy Awards for the past 32 years, introduced the film and participated in a panel discussion afterward with Recording Academy president Neil Portnow, Grammy host LL Cool J, musician Dave Grohl and others.

Fantasy reflects reality. Like other films in the genre, this Shankman effort draws heavily on how rock stars live their lives

IN FOCUS

In Rock of Ages Tom Cruise plays superstar Stacee Jaxx. He's Ozzy Osbourne with Axl Rose's attitude and Prince's trademarked revealing chaps, a spicy stew of rebellion, decadence and Jack Daniels.

The first time we see Jaxx in the film he's on a round bed, buried under several scantily clad women. It's a memorable first look at the character, but it's not exactly an original one.

Director Adam Shankman admits that the idea came from a similar scene — featuring KISS singer Paul Stanley — in the heavy metal documentary The Decline of Western Civilization Part II: The Metal Years.

It's not the first time a music movie has taken its cue from real rock life.

For a year before shooting playing Jim Morrison in The Doors Val Kilmer immersed himself in the singer's life, wearing his clothes and spending time at the Lizard King's favorite Sunset Strip bars.

Despite the film's many factual errors — drummer

John Densmore claims "A third of it is fiction" — the recording studio scene where Jim smashes a TV is true, and even Jim's disgruntled ex-band mates said they couldn't distinguish Kilmer's voice from the real Morrison's.

The Doors weren't the only musicians fooled by an actor.

Joan Jett was annoyed that Kristen Stewart wore leather pants when playing her in The Runaways — it would have been more authentic if she had worn jeans she said — but she was impressed with Stewart's voice. When she first heard a recording of the actress belting out one of her songs she thought it was actually a tape of her old band.

Big-time show

Some facts about the Rock of Ages movie:

- Decisions. Will Ferrell and Steve Carrell were considered for Alec Baldwin's role; and Taylor Swift was considered for Julianne Hough's.
- Location. The film was shot in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.
- Big budget. It cost more than $70 million to make.

thentic bit of Sid to the film by wearing the bass player's real chain necklace in several scenes. Sid's mom gave the actor the necklace to wear during filming.

Just as Shankman and Cruise borrowed from The Decline of Western Civilization, the Bob Dylan doc Don't Look Back has inspired scenes in movies such as Bob Roberts and I'm Not There.

The mockumentary Walk Hard: The Dewey Cox Story parodies the movie in a press conference scene when a reporter compares Dewey to Dylan. "Why doesn't anyone ask Bob Dylan why he sounds so much like Dewey Cox?" Dewey replies, echoing Dylan's response to a reporter who likened Dylan to singer-songwriter Donovan.

Crime pays for Boardwalk Empire's Winter

In the know. A lifelong interest in, and a close-up view of, crime allows former Sopranos writer to be incredibly accurate

Terence Winter has always had criminal leanings but fortunately the creator of the critically-acclaimed Boardwalk Empire channelled his lifelong obsession into something good.

Boardwalk Empire is a period drama starring Steve Buscemi, focusing on Enoch "Nucky" Thompson, a political figure who rose to prominence and controlled Atlantic City, New Jersey, during the Prohibition period of the 1920s and 1930s.

It has been renewed for a third season.

The inspiration that has driven him to spend much of his career writing about criminals — he was also a major writer on The Sopranos — came from an unexpected place.

"I'm always interested in criminals and crime. People ask me how this started and aside from growing up in Brooklyn in an area that kind of has a long history in mob type behaviour I could point it to the movie version of Oli-ver Twist," Winter said with a chuckle at the Banff World Media Festival. He is also listed as a writer and executive producer of the show.

"I remember I was a kid growing fascinated with pick-pocketing — that was the subplot — Fagin and his pick-pockets in that underground gang. A year later the Sting came out and it was all about con men and I became interested in that."

Winter, 51, also worked in a butcher shop that turned out to be owned by Paul Castellano, who was then the head of the powerful Gambino crime family.

"I got to rub elbows with guys not unlike the people who were in the Sopranos and just saw how they thought and how they talked and how they operated. It was just a world I was familiar with and was comfortable writing about."

Winter was an executive producer for The Sopranos and wrote 25 episodes over the HBO series six-year run.

"I was just finishing up on the Sopranos — HBO gave me the book and said why don't you read this to see if you think there might be a TV series in here and by the way Martin Scorsese is attached to this thing," he said.

(While he declined to give an explanation to donors who paid up to $1,000 per ticket, suffice it to say we sincerely doubt it was a work commitment.)

Fortunately, Howard Stern's wife, Beth, stepped in — and naturally, Stern had something to say about it during his Tuesday morning broadcast.

"A lot of celebrities agree to do something for a charity, and at the last minute they cancel, leaving the charity stranded," he said.

Workplace Law

You think you know, but you have no idea

WORKPLACE LAW

Daniel Lublin
dan@canadaemploymentlawyer.com
Twitter: @danlublin

Most employees cling to beliefs about workplace rights they gleaned from media, friends or researching online.

But many of these “perceived” rights often do not exist.

Here are some of my favourite misconceptions:

Discrimination means unequal treatment

It is not discrimination if you are simply treated unfairly or differently. Discrimination laws only protect differential treatment based on a defined set of personal characteristics, such as age, race, gender or disability. Employees can be treated differently based on any other grounds, without any form of legal protection.

Similarly, there is no legal requirement that promotions or bonuses be assessed fairly.

An employer may decide, often arbitrarily, who it wishes to promote and how it will compensate its employees. It is entitled to show favouritism, as long as its decision is not based on personal characteristics, such as race, religion or gender.

An employee is entitled to overtime pay for any additional hours worked.

Unless an employment contract states otherwise, overtime pay is only required for hours worked in excess of the statutory standards, which vary among provinces. Many employees do not realize that they can be required to work for longer than nine to five, without an entitlement to overtime pay.

There is a right to sick leave

There is no statutory or legal requirement to provide employees with paid time off from work due to an illness. Although many employers have policies that do provide a few days' sick leave each year, it is not because they are compelled to do so. Without such a policy, if an employee is off work and sick, she need not be paid for that time.

If I work through lunch, I can leave work early

This is one of my favourite misconceptions. Employees often believe they can make up lost time or “trade” a break or lunch for an early departure. However, most provincial employment standards laws require that a 30-minute lunch be taken, at least, every five hours. Therefore, even if an employer were to agree to such a “trade” (and few would do so), it would still be illegal.

Move on over cedar plank, pineapple bark is coming for that top grilling spot

Using pineapple bark in the same way you would use a cedar plank to grill, infuses the meat with a delicate sweetness, and keeps it moist and juicy. The enzymes in the pineapple also help to tenderize the meat.

1. Carefully cut off the top and bottom of the pineapple. These can be discarded. Stand the pineapple upright. Cut the skin off the pineapple, removing it in 6 long strips. To do this, begin cutting at the top of the fruit and slice downward, letting the knife follow the curve of the fruit. Leave about 1/2 inch of flesh on each strip of skin. Rotate the fruit and repeat. Set aside.

2. Place each chicken breast between sheets of plastic wrap and use a meat mallet to pound to an even 1/2 inch thickness. Season each on both sides with salt, pepper, cumin and cay-

Ingredients

- 1 large whole pineapple
- 3 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- Salt and ground black pepper
- Ground cumin
- Cayenne pepper
- 1/2 small red onion, diced
- 1 jalapeno, seeds removed, diced
- 2 avocados, pitted and chopped

enne. Lay each piece of chicken over the cut side of one of the slices of pineapple skin. Set a second strip of pineapple skin, cut side down, on top. Use kitchen twine to tie the bundles to hold them together. Refrigerate the chicken bundles for about 30 minutes.

3. When ready to cook, heat one side of the grill to high, the other side to low.

4. Meanwhile, cut the skinned pineapple (the flesh) into thick circles. Use a small round cookie or biscuit cutter (or a paring knife) to cut out and discard the core from each round.

5. When grill is hot, arrange chicken bundles on the cooler side of the grill. Cook for 15 minutes per side, or until the chicken reaches 165 F at the centre. During the final 10 minutes, add the pineapple rings and cook for 5 minutes per side.

6. Guacamole: In bowl combine red onion, jalapeno, avocados, lime juice and cilantro. Gently mix then season with salt and pepper.

7. To serve, place one chicken bundle on each plate. Set a grilled pineapple ring next to it, spoon some guacamole into centre of and over pineapple ring. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thai Peanut Chicken Pops. A bursting combo of flavours from the barbecue

1. In a bowl, whisk peanut butter with soy sauce, lime juice and curry paste until blended.

2. Slice chicken lengthwise into 1/2-inch (1-cm) thick strips. Add chicken to peanut butter mix and stir to coat. Refrigerate chicken at least 2 hours before skewering.

3. Soak skewers in water. Oil grill and preheat to medium. Remove chicken from marinade and roll each strip into a spiral, inserting a small skewer through each spiral to hold like a lollipop. The end pieces will be smaller, so roll with another strip. Sprinkle with salt.

Intra-squad games axed from Mooseheads camp

QMJHL. Rookie camp will open on Aug. 16 at Cole Harbour Place

MATTHEW WUEST
matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

The Halifax Mooseheads have scrapped their popular intra-squad games at training camp.

The Mooseheads will kick off the 2012-13 season on Thursday, Aug. 16 with a two-day rookie camp at Cole Harbour Place followed by a home-and-home exhibition series with the Cape Breton Screaming Eagles that Saturday and Sunday. Veterans won't report until Monday, Aug. 20.

Mooseheads general manager Cam Russell said the later start date of the QMJHL season — Sept. 20 — played a part in the decision.

"You're always trying to please the fans — they're the ones who support you — but our camp is two weeks longer this year than it usually is," he said. "We didn't want to bring our veterans in too early ... and we're not going to have enough players to do intra-squad games those first two days."

Intra-squad games have been a long-standing tradition for the Mooseheads, with fans taking advantage of free admission to pack the stands at Cole Harbour Place.

The Mooseheads have held either four-on-four or five-on-five intra-squad games for the past six years. In 2004 and 2005, they dropped down to three-on-three.

Russell said he and head coach Dominique Ducharme are expecting as many as 30 rookies from Aug. 16 to 19, with one practice Thursday night and two practices on Friday.

Cuts will be made on Monday morning following the exhibition games against Cape Breton.

Veterans will report for registration on Monday and will hit the ice for the first time on Tuesday.

"We didn't want to have the veterans coming in on the 15th of August, so we pushed it back five days for them," Russell said. "It just gives them a bit more of a break."

Mooseheads head coach Dominique Ducharme will spend four days with rookies at training camp before the veterans show up. RYAN TAPLIN/METRO FILE

Canada had hoped to take two victories and some breathing room into a two-month break between World Cup qualifying games.

Instead, the Canadians played Honduras to a 0-0 draw Tuesday, settling for four points from their first two matches in the third round of CONCACAF qualifying as they continue their quest for the country's first World Cup berth since 1986.

The result was a frustrating one for Canada, which was coming off a 1-0 victory over Cuba on Friday in Havana and maintained most of the possession on the night in front of 16,132 fans at BMO Field in Toronto.

Canada had numerous scoring opportunities, perhaps the best coming on a corner kick in the 90th minute that captain Kevin McKenna headed just wide of the Honduran goal.

Canadian defender David Edgar had two glorious chances, including a header off a corner kick in second-half injury time that he knocked just wide of the net before the final whistle.

The match was marred before kickoff by fighting between hooligans from both countries, leaving several people injured as thousands of Russian fans marched to celebrate the Russia Day national holiday.

Dzagoev darted past defender Lukasz Piszczek in the 37th minute and sent a glancing header beyond goalkeeper Przemyslaw Tyton after a curling free kick from Andrei Arshavin.

But Poland was rewarded for its attacking intent in the 57th when Blaszczykowski cut in from the right and sent a searing left-foot drive into the far corner of the goal.

"I think we deserve praise because all of us put a lot into this match," Blaszczykowski said. "The tactics we set up before the match we carried out 100 per cent."

top of Group A with four points but also kept alive Poland's chances of qualifying for the quarter-finals.

Czechs back on track

The Czech Republic revived its European Championship hopes with two goals in the first six minutes as it sealed a 2-1 victory over Greece on Tuesday.

Petr Jiracek opened the scoring in the third minute, and three minutes later, Vaclav Pilar scored his second goal of the tournament.

Substitute Fanis Gekas pulled one back for Greece in the 53rd minute.

The result put the Czechs' bid to qualify for the quarter-finals back on track after an opening 4-1 loss to Russia in Group A. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ALL PHOTOS WHEELBASE

Nice rims

As is the Scion way, the FR-S is shipped from its Japanese homeland with the expected load of standard gear plus aluminum sport pedals, a 300-watt Pioneer-brand sound system and Michelin Primacy rubber fitted to a neat set of 17-inch alloy wheels.

Premium fuel

This Scion is slim and trim — which saves fuel — with a rating of 8.3 L/100 km city and 5.8 highway for the automatic (9.6/6.6 for manual-gearbox versions).

But those numbers are offset by the engine's requirement for more expensive premium fuel.

2013 Scion FR-S

- Type. Two-door, rear-wheel-drive 2+2 sport coupe.
- Engine (hp): 2.0-litre DOHC H4 (200).
- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 9.6/6.6 (MT).
- Base Price (incl. destination): $27,500.

Engine

Hitting 100 km/h from rest takes a bit more than six seconds.

As with Subaru's BRZ, the FR-S employs a 200-horsepower (and 151 pound-feet of torque) 2.0-litre "flat" four-cylinder engine (one bank of two pistons fires at 180 degrees to the opposite two pistons). The basic design is all-Subaru, while Toyota contributes a unique intake system.

MALCOLM GUNN

Wheelbase Media

Look, everyone ... twins.

For Subaru, the BRZ becomes the exception to its all-wheel-drive, all-the-time rule. For Toyota's Scion division, the identical FR-S is the flagship model that the brand has needed from the start.

It's unusual for two competing automakers (although Toyota does own a small piece of Subaru) to launch closely similar products, but not entirely unheard of. But in the case of specialty vehicles — 2+2 sport coupes, for example — that sell in limited quantities, it's a bit surprising, but ultimately great for buyers who could initiate a dealership dogfight in their attempts to score the best deal.

Scion, with its more prolific dealer network, should easily move its fair share of FR-S metal. FR-S stands for front-engine, rear-wheel-drive sport. And what impressive metal it is. The coupe's long-hood, short-deck proportions are right on the money and the low hood, muscular fenders and curvy roofline give it a poised, gimmick-free appearance.

The FR-S represents the kind of breakout styling that the rest of the Toyota fleet should emulate.

The interior design also carries the Toyota stamp of approval, with big round dials flanked by even bigger round air vents.

With a road-ready starting price of $27,500, the Scion-Subaru FR-S offspring is all about inexpensive fun. Remember what that was like?

No? It's about time, then, that Toyota and Subaru got together.

Trans-Canada Highway turns 50

Autopilot

AUTO PILOT
Mike Goetz
drive@metronews.ca

The Trans-Canada Highway, which turns 50-years old this year, is almost too Canadian. Like someone was working with a checklist, trying to jam as many Canadian-isms into one entity as possible.

Like, is it big? It's gotta be big, right?

Well, how about, one of the world's longest national roads? This shouldn't be too surprising. One thing this country is not short on is width.

When it was completed in 1962, it encompassed 4,860 miles (7,776 km). Over the years, several more routes were added, so its even longer today (8,000 plus).

Did we have enough federal-provincial bickering?

Absolutely.
"From the very beginning, the feds and the provinces

One of the more recent and dramatic stretches to be added to the network known as the Trans Canada Highway 1, is the 13-km Confederation Bridge, completed in 1997, connecting P.E.I. to New Brunswick (and vice versa!). PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED were bickering about who would pay, how much they would pay, where the route would go. This all made it a very typical Canada project," says Daniel Francis, author of the beautiful book, Road for Canada, The Illustrated Story of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Enough battling with beautiful and cruel nature?

Besides the political hurdles, there were obviously also very, real natural ones. Like really big, mountains. Several of the major mountain roads in B.C., like the Big Bend Highway that links Golden with Revelstoke, were completed as "make work" projects during the 1930s.

But the last gap to be closed was a mosquito-infested stretch around Lake Superior, which actually became known as "The Gap." A paved road through there was not completed until 1960.

When I asked Francis about his favourite scenic stretches, he mentioned several — all those B.C. mountain passes, the Saint John River Valley in New Brunswick, the road north of Superior — before he metaphorically threw his hands up.

"Well, you could go on about the landscape in Canada forever ... the road lets you see it."

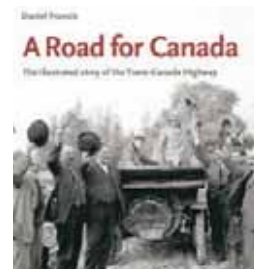

Celebrated in typical muted Canadian way?

While construction continued until 1971, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker officially opened the Trans-Canada on Sept. 3, 1962, in a screwed up ceremony on the Rogers Pass, in B.C.. The sound system didn't work. The musicians were late. Speeches went on and on and on.

And while we've come to love our big highway, Francis notes it pales in myth-making capacity when compared to the first railway to cross the country.

"Unlike the railway, which was built very quickly, in a very specific period of time, the highway build spread out over many years. It was also a project that was made up of other roads, which already existed."

Also hurting its status as a topic for folk singers, is that it has evolved over the years to become more a system of getting across the country, than one magical, all-encompassing East-West route.

But there is lots of magic in that road (or system). Every Canadian dreams of hitting the highway and seeing the country at some point in their lives, and every Canadian can immediately picture Terry Fox and Rick Hansen on that highway, and when one does that, it's not hard to feel pride in being a Canadian.

Notes Francis: "It does seem that when we have an important statement to make, or some drama to enact, the highway tends to be the place where we do it."

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.
Today's Sun-Saturn link promises that if you make a serious effort you will enjoy serious results — the kind that could make you a star.
♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.
The planets will bring several opportunities your way over the next 24 hours but there is one goal you should be focusing on to the exclusion of everything else.
♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.
The more you are on the move today, the less time you will have to spend worrying about little things.
♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.
You sense that an important change is coming and you are worried it might be a change for the worse. You won't escape this feeling until the Sun enters your sign on the 20th.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. You will realize today that you were wrong to be suspicious about someone's motives. Apologize if you've been harsh. It's not too late, but be fast.
♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. You enjoy routine but the planets warn there is a danger you could settle into a routine that is too comfortable and too predictable.
♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Things have been going so well for you that you are afraid there is some sort of catch. Don't worry, there isn't. Today's Sun-Saturn link will confirm how truly fortunate you are.
♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Money matters will go well today but they will go even better if you follow your instincts rather than what the "experts" suggest.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. Forget what others say you have to do and focus on your own desires. That is not only the recipe for having fun but also the recipe for success.
♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. Someone in a position of authority will be impressed by your willingness to stick to a task that others too easily gave up on.
♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. You won't lack for confidence today, and you never lack for courage, but hopefully you will balance that with a large dose of common sense.
♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. Financial matters are under favourable stars today and if you use your brain you will come out ahead of the game.
